Current and Upcoming Club Competitions

- Tonight - Digital - “Open - Centered Subject”
- April 10 – Print – due 3/27 – “Top-Down Perspective”: Capture a scene where your perspective comes from the top. Be creative by getting higher for your shot – up on a ladder, from the top of a parking garage, from the top of a stairway or bridge, etc. It means that your camera is above the subject and you’re taking the photograph downwards from above. This can include a still life composition called flat lays which involves shooting straight down at the scene.
- April 24 – Digital – due 4/10 – “Pick a Subject” - Pets, Domestic (Farm) Animals or Wildlife. The subject of the image must be either pets (e.g., fish, birds, dogs, cats etc.), domestic (farm) animals (e.g., cows, sheep, goats, pigs, horses, chickens, alpaca, etc.) or wildlife. Wildlife can include mammals, birds, amphibians, reptiles or fish - in the wild. Any images may include people in addition to the pets, domestics, or wildlife. The images must be taken between February 28th and April 10th. Captive zoo animals (except for petting farm domestics) and insects are excluded from this topic.
- May 8 – Print – due 4/24 – “Open – One Color” - The image can be of any subject. The image must be all one color. It CANNOT be a black and white or sepia image – it must be one color of various tones! An example of a one-color image would be blueberries, in a blue bowl, with a blue napkin, on a blue background.
- May 22 – Digital – due 5/8 – “Architectural Elements” - When doing architectural photography, it’s easy to get lost in the grandeur of buildings – yet the details matter, too. When photographing buildings, the best approach is to make use of architecture design elements such as shape, line, color, pattern, texture, and space. This image should be of the elements or details within the design of the building and can be inside or outside of the building or structure. It just cannot be the whole building or structure. Examples would include staircases, doorknobs, patterns in floor tiles, windows, doors, etc.
- May 22 - Digital - due 5/8 – “Creative Image Competition” - Up to two images may be entered “...focusing on creative images and permitting unlimited manipulation and processing techniques.” Artistic or creative effects can be created in camera during shooting of your subject or in processing your image in the computer. Members will vote for the winners by choosing their two favorite images. These can be fundamentally different from what members typically enter in competitions.

New Business: Audra announced her need to turn over her role as Digital Chair in the next month. Susan requested that volunteers to take over this role should contact Susan and/or Audra. We need to move on this within the next 30 days.

In order for judges to preview the print photos, but still use the actual “in-hand” print for final judging, print photos will now be shared with the judge prior to the digital photo competition. In this manner the judge is not faced with judging numerous photos just prior to the actual print photo meeting. This was approved unanimously by the membership.

Titles can now be affixed to photos for all competitions and seen by the judges. This was approved unanimously by the membership with the appropriate changes to be made to the by-laws for both of these items.

Digital Photo Competition - “Open - Centered”

- One of the most powerful ways to draw attention to your main subject. In centered composition, the main subject is placed smack in the middle of the image frame.
- Centered composition is often good for portraits, wildlife, and single flowers.
- The image can be of any subject you chose and can be color or monochrome.
- The photo must have taken in the last 24 months (since March, 2022).

Judge: Dan Thompson

Dan Thompson was born and raised in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains and began exploring the art of photography in a high school art class. Over the years Dan dabbled with photography as a hobby, until finally getting serious with it in 2003, when he and his wife got bitten by the travel bug and he saw refining his skills behind the camera as a means to better capture their experiences together. Dan now works as an industry analyst for a technology research firm, which sends him all over the world to meet with up-and-coming businesses, and simultaneously scratches the travel itch while also affording him the opportunity to photograph some interesting places. His work could be broadly categorized as travel photography, with a particular focus on night and nature photography, but he sincerely loves the process of taking pictures, regardless of the subject.

Dan's work can be seen on his and his wife's website, www.danandholly.com
